The technology has been in development for the past year and there is already a playable “demo” on the Xbox One and PS4. The demo has 2-3 hours of gameplay. The game will be available for pre-order from 4th July and will be available from both retailers and the PlayStation Store for $59.99. VIDEO DEMO: HyperMotion Technology and Dynamic Progression In FIFA 22, players will have a unique progression system. Instead of unlockable cards to unlock exclusive players and kits, the game will now unlock players and kits along the way as you play the game. The kits, players, and stadiums will all be based on the number of gameplay hours. The first 4 hours of gameplay will unlock the first stadium, then the next 4 hours unlock the second stadium, etc. The player progression system will help progress the game along more evenly, creating the more realistic experience that fans have been asking for. The Dynamic Progression feature has also been introduced in FIFA 22. This allows players to progress around the world as they play the game, helping move players along their journey to become a true global star. The more the player completes, the better the results they’ll have. The Dynamic Progression also helps create more gameplay variety as players can progress through World Cups, domestic leagues, Champions League matches, and international events. In addition to Dynamic Progression, Mastermind Mode has also been introduced in FIFA 22. This mode is for higher-level players. Instead of increasing a player’s stats based on performance in game, the mode unlocks ‘Mastermind packs.’ Each pack contains Skill Gems, Tactics, and a build up, giving players extra options to take their game to the next level. When playing with Friends, there will be new social features. When you’re playing with a Friends’ Pass, it will also be included into the group’s replay system. With the Friends’ Pass you can save replays, and replays can now be shared to Facebook. Players can now also select their friends from the Friends List on PS4. Overall, there is a larger focus on the Ultimate Team in FIFA 22. “The Ultimate Team is very important to all of us at EA Sports. We are big fans and we’ve poured a lot of time and energy into this mode. We have never seen such high-quality, natural gameplay of

What's new:

- All-Time Teams Selection - The all-time teams format now offers 60 players, each based on their club and country from the 1982 version of the official database (the last competition held before the printing of the 1982 World Cup squad lists). The tournament includes: Italy 1982, France 1982, Belgium 1982, Uruguay 1982, New Zealand 1982, West Germany 1982, Chile 1982, Britain 1982, Norway 1982, Switzerland 1982, Austria 1982, Canada 1982, Japan 1982, Scotland 1982, Sweden 1982, Russia 1982, Brazil 1982 and Spain 1982.

One-Touch Play (FreeKick, Penalty, Free Kick)

- This year, every free kick and penalty will be delivered using one touch. This replaces the old “tap-in” method of controlled-passing.
- One touch also takes place when launching a header, which can now be accurately controlled throughout its entire course, allowing players to explore unnatural angles when hitting a ball with their head.

- Players can also place their bodies directly in front of the ball when performing a header, giving the player an extra boost when “one-touches” the ball.
- Additionally, players can now spin the ball after one-touch, letting them pass the ball to a teammate in a different direction when all players are correctly positioned.
- Inevitably, this new one-touch style of passing is also easier on the legs of the player.
- It’s more realistic and more enjoyable.
- This change, in its various forms, is always available to any player.
