In The Project, her latest book, she reminisces about her life as an activist in the anti-war movement during the 1960s and how she turned her energy to another life-changing experience – creating a grassroots, feminist movement in Canada. After practising law for a decade, May came to realize the injustices done to women and children in the world. She decided to participate in many different initiatives in order to give back to the community. In 2008, May founded Women's Action to Aid the Employment of Women (W.A.)
