The sounds of the early music were made by Handel, Scarlatti, Telemann, Bach and da Ponte. Sports and exercise are critical for maintaining optimal health and well-being. However, performing sporting activities can be difficult for individuals with limited mobility, such as individuals with Parkinson's disease (PD). The present invention features systems and methods of providing cueing for a user participating in a sporting activity and/or physical activity. In some embodiments, the cueing is performed using feedback provided to the user by a sensing device that can be worn on a user, e.g., a device worn on the body, such as a jacket, a wristwatch, or a shoe. In some embodiments, the controller includes a software program, such as a control program, that coordinates multiple sensors provided to sense the activity of the user. Claim: What is claimed is: 1. An activity cueing apparatus comprising: a sensing device, the sensing device being configured to be worn by a user, a controller configured to be worn on the user, the controller being configured to receive information from the sensing device, and a cueing device, the cueing device being configured to receive information from the controller, the cueing device being configured to provide information to the user regarding an activity, wherein the controller is configured to determine an activity performed by the user by receiving information from the sensing device. 2. The apparatus of claim 1, wherein the information provided to the user via the cueing device includes, a length of a stride of the user, a speed of the user, a position of the user, or an identification of an object perceived by the sensing device. 3. The apparatus of claim 1, wherein the controller is configured to determine whether the sensed information meets predetermined criteria, wherein the predetermined criteria are based on the activity and further having the controller determine whether to provide the information to the user. 4. The apparatus of claim 1, wherein the information provided to the user via the cueing device includes the identification of an object perceived by the sensing device, wherein the controller is configured to determine that the user is walking, jogging, or running and is wearing the sensing device on a shoe. 5.
